Hearing Set For Thursday By Judge

Seventy-eight striking members of Local 1068 at Tappan here will have to show cause Thursday why they should not be held in contempt of court by Calloway Circuit Judge James Lassiter.

Lassiter issued the order Monday in response to a motion from the Tappan Co. officials, charging that protesters had violated certain orders issued by Lassiter previously during the 12-week strike.

The 78 employees were specified in the motion, as those Tappan alleges have been picketing illegally. Judge Lassiter had ordered that no more than three pickets be allowed at any one gate to the plant.

The judge delayed action on the Tappan motion that the United Auto Workers union be required to pay $100,000 a day for further violations of the court order on picketing.

He also postponed any action on a plea to place the UAW under $100,000 bond to cover possible injuries to non-striking employees or plant damage by union members.

Herbert Segal, an attorney for the UAW from Louisville, argued that the company had not set the stage for the union to be legally before the court. He also contended that before a union can be sued in state courts, it must be alleged that some union officer has violated a court order, which Segal denied. He pointed out that no union officer has been involved in any illegal picketing at the plant, therefore, the union cannot be held responsible for any illegal acts.

The affidavits alleged that strikers interfered with non-striking workers, tried to block train shipments from the plant, and disobeyed the order limiting the number of pickets.

Lassiter said the court action involving the contempt of court charges must be "resolved as soon as possible." He said the strike "is not going to be settled in court and it is important that it is made possible for litigation to be concluded and negotiations resumed."

Union members had voiced complaints that "scab" labor was being brought in by the company to take over the jobs, and the situation came to a head the week of August 25, when strikers successfully blocked the entrance to the plant for four days. A compromise agreement was reached, and the two sides agreed to meet at a bargaining session with federal mediation in Nashville on Sept. 2, however no agreement was reached, and no further negotiations have been scheduled.

An L & N Railroad train removed ten boxcars from the Tappan plant yesterday, and replaced another ten in the warehouse, without incident.

Unconfirmed Case Of Encephalitis Reported Here By Officials Today

A suspected case of viral encephalitis has been reported in Calloway County, according to the Calloway County Health Department and members of the family of the ill person.

Mrs. Virgil (Rachel) Gibbs of Murray Route Two, Penny-Airport Road, has been hospitalized since last Wednesday at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital with the suspected viral encephalitis, according to members of her family.

The Murray woman first became ill on Thursday, August 28, when she awoke that morning with a severe headache. Family members said during this first part of her illness she would just sleep continuously but they thought it was just from the medication she had taken for her headache.

Mrs. Gibbs' illness was accompanied by high fever on Sunday, August 31, and then by nausea and vomiting on Wednesday, September 3, when she was hospitalized. Family members said she is in Room 207 at the local hospital and is not in isolation as the doctors have told them the disease is not contagious.

Family members of Mrs. Gibbs said the doctors have taken the spinal tap, but the results of the special blood tests to determine exactly if it is the viral encephalitis have not been completed as yet. These tests have to be sent to other laboratories for the results, the family members said.

Six cases of the St. Louis strain of the disease have been reported in Louisville and aside from those no other cases of the St. Louis strain of encephalitis have been confirmed in Kentucky through blood tests, Dr. C. Hernandez, director of preventive services for the Kentucky Bureau of Health Services said.

The St. Louis strain, transmitted by the mosquito, is a suspected cause for the illnesses of as many as 45 other persons in the state. There are as many as 100 different kinds of encephalitis, more commonly known as "sleeping sickness." Medical authorities report that the different varieties of the disease can be caused by a number of things, from viruses to drugs.

The disease causes inflammation of the brain, spinal cord and the tissues covering them. There is no known cure for the disease but treatment for the complications of the disease can be administered.

The best way to combat the disease is to eliminate its beginning by controlling the mosquito population. Individuals might protect themselves by cutting grass and weeds and removing containers and puddles of water where the insects might live. Insect repellent may also be used on the body when outdoors from sunset to early morning.

The mosquitoes breed in small puddles of water and every effort should be made to eliminate standing water in old cans, buckets, roof gutters and in any other type of artificial container, health officials say.

In addition, any polluted ground pools, cesspools or open septic tanks should be eliminated. These water collections, however small, are places where mosquitoes breed and grow. If the pools cannot be drained or filled, light oil may be poured or sprayed on the surface.

Insect sprays can be helpful in eliminating adult mosquitoes. Insecticides containing diazinon or malathion, prepared and used carefully following the label, can be sprayed on walls, around windows and doors or other places where mosquitoes are seen resting.

Insect repellents may also be used, especially in the evenings when mosquitoes are biting. Persons should also be protected at night while sleeping by repairing screens on doors and windows.

Two Louisville Youths Arrested For Carrying Toy Pistols On Bus

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Two students were arrested today as Jefferson County youngsters returned to their newly-desegregated classrooms under the watchful eyes of police and National Guardsmen.

The youths were taken off a bus after the driver reported seeing a gun passed between them. Police reported later that the boys carried toy pistols. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

Each bus carries an armed guardsman or patrolman on orders from U.S. District Judge James F. Gordon to forestall any violence. He also has forbidden any mass demonstrations.

Spot checks indicated that attendance, particularly among whites, might be increasing significantly.

Listed as absent were 93 teachers, nine more than Monday, but officials said they were "attributing this to illness only."

There were 64 drivers missing, compared with 96 the previous day out of a total of 577. Officials could not explain the unusually large number of absent drivers Monday. However, some reported they had been threatened if they tried to make their runs.

Jefferson County Police Chief Russell McDaniel, meantime, said he was "very, very proud, very happy, that we had a quiet day and night on Monday, the first day back to school" after a weekend of violence.

The disturbances were triggered by Gordon's desegregation plan which provides for the busing of 22,600 students out of a total school population of 135,000. About one-half of those to be bused are black.

School officials had expected attendance to drop off seriously because of the weekend of violence. But more pupils went to school Monday — 67,151 — than on Thursday, when 57,521 attended classes.

The National Guard was called up early Saturday, and a spokesman for the Guard said Monday that no decision had been made as to how long the soldiers will remain in the area.

All demonstrations and public gatherings have been banned by Gordon and Mayor Harvey Sloane until further notice.

Gordon drew up the desegregation plan after the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that traces of segregation still remained in many of the area's schools.

Key Democrats All But Concede Defeat To Ford Over Oil Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key Democrats are all but conceding defeat to President Ford in their battle over the price of petroleum.

A victory for Ford in the veto he was to announce today would mean higher fuel prices for Americans and the White House contends, a decreasing reliance on the Middle Eastern oil-producing countries.

But the congressional Democrats who have opposed the Ford proposals for eight months insist the President's plan would bring more inflation and hinder the fight against unemployment.

The immediate issue is a bill to extend oil-price controls for six months. Democrats last week expressed confidence that they would be able to override the veto, thereby giving the lawmakers until March 1 to develop an alternative for Ford's energy program.

But after a Senate Democratic caucus on Monday, the confidence vanished.

"It's going to be tough," said Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash. "The White House is working day and night with all sorts of promises to the Republicans who previously were fairly secure in their decision to override."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who usually does the nose-counting for the Democratic leadership, said the task of overriding looks difficult.

Cranston said Sens. Russell B. Long and J. Bennett Johnston of Louisiana, Gale McGee of Wyoming and Mike Gravel of Alaska, all of whom represent energy-producing states, are expected to support Ford.

Six senators are undecided, but nine or 10 Republicans might vote against the President's veto, Cranston said.

Calloway County Pupils Benefit From Regionalization

By some standards Kentucky reportedly may rank 49th in education based on per pupil expenditures. However, the state's management of available revenue has attracted national attention, according to Dr. Lyman Ginger, state superintendent of public instruction.

Ginger explained that in 1972 the formation of the Kentucky Education Development Regions divided the state into 17 geographic locations. Through this systematic delivery of state services to the local level, tax dollars were stretched further and Kentucky's students were provided with better school programs.

By making use of regionalization, a small school that otherwise could not afford a driver's education class can share costs of the course with neighboring schools in a similar financial situation. Kentucky's school systems have continued to develop this idea in such areas as special education and the purchasing of supplies.

Although two regions (Jefferson and Fayette County) remain inoperative, Ginger noted that the program is two years ahead of schedule. "I think the achievement in those regions is nothing short of phenomenal," he said.

Ginger's enthusiasm for the regions is also voiced by William Birdwell, state director of the program. He explained that one answer for regionalization's success lies in the fact that whereas public education previously relied on about 10 different geographic locations for handling state programs, now there is only one. And, more importantly, independent districts with a common interest are working cooperatively instead of at odds to better educate children in the communities.

Birdwell said that while the regions primarily were set up to improve state services to the local districts, school superintendents now also have a greater influence on education in Kentucky. All superintendents whose districts participate in regionalization serve on a board along with local collegiate, vocational education and manpower personnel and someone from the state Department of Education.

While these professionals meet as a group every month, the day to day activities or regionalization are coordinated by a small staff. For instance, James West directs Region One, an area composed of Fulton, Hickman, Carlisle, Ballard, McCracken, Graves, Marshall and Calloway counties in far Western Kentucky. The region is composed of 12 school districts made up of more than 32,000 students.

As a considerable amount of paper products and food supplies must be purchased, Region One has taken advantage of cooperative purchasing to alleviate inflation. By buying in large quantities, districts receive a lower rate and more time can be devoted to administrative duties.

The benefits of regionalization extend much further than just saving money. Special education projects in Region One have received more emphasis through Innovation Through Supervision, better known as ITS.

Barbara Hale, a consultant with 15 years experience in working with exceptional children, assists 80 other instructors in her field by identifying activities with Murray State University's Special Education Department.

Reaching almost 1,000 special education students, Project ITS deals with the educable mentally handicapped, emotionally disturbed, learning disabilities and speech therapy. Regionalization sometimes extends over boundary lines, as shown by an agreement between Regions One and Two whereby 28 hearing impaired students are provided with transportation to and from the Kentucky School for the Deaf in Danville on a rotating basis. West noted that although the busing of deaf students was a minor activity to the region as a whole, the project was a very important one to the students and their parents.

"Regionalization has certainly enhanced the cooperative spirit of the school systems. Our biggest plus is that different areas receive valuable information that they might otherwise be unaware of so we are brought closer together," he said.

Several Western Kentucky educators aid West in continuing to improve school programs. Among those serving on Region One's board of directors are Reed Conder, the chairman and superintendent of Marshall County schools. Conder also represents the Purchase Area Development District. Bob Buchanan, superintendent of Ballard County schools, is the vice chairman.

Other superintendents serving on the board are William Miller, Calloway County; Fred Schultz, Murray independent schools; Charles Baker, Carlisle County; Harold Garrison, Fulton County; James Dewese, Graves County; Don Sparks, Mayfield independent; John Floyd, Hickman County; Bill Brown, McCracken County; David Whitehead, Paducah independent; and Charles Thomas, Fulton independent.

The board membership is completed by H. C. Mathis, Manpower Commission; Dr. Donald Hunter, Murray State University; Dr. Donald Clemens, Paducah Community College; Virgil Rains, Regional Vocational Advisory Committee; and Conley Manning, state Department of Education.

Married In Home Ceremony

Mrs. Terry Michael Hannah

Miss Karen Russell and Terry Michael Hannah were married in a beautiful outdoor setting at the home of the bride's parents on Saturday, August second.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Russell of Murray Route Five, New Concord Road, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fleetis P. Hannah, Sr., of Louisville.

Rev. James T. Carter, Paducah, performed the double ring ceremony at six p. m. as the wedding party stood before an arch entwined with ivy, magnolia leaves, and summer flowers. Pots of wood's fern completed the setting.

Donald Travis of Camden, Tenn., presented the nuptial music. His selections were "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Bride's Dress

The bride, escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, was lovely in her formal gown of ivory qiana knit. Elegant simplicity was expressed in her gown that featured a decollete v-neckline and long slim sleeves tapered to fit at the wrist. The bodice featured a shaped front belt stitched at the neckline with a cluster of seed pearls. The belt formed graceful folds in a free flowing gown as it was fastened in the back.

Her floor length veil of bridal illusion was outlined with matching lace. The gown and veil were designed by the bride and fashioned by her mother. She carried a bridal bouquet of white daisies, yellow rosebuds, and baby's breath.

Miss Kathy Rogers was the bride's only attendant. She wore a formal gown of powder blue qiana knit fashioned with an empire bodice featuring a square neckline edged in deep white lace and short bell sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and blue baby's breath.

Fleetis P. Hannah, Jr., Covington, served as his brother's best man. All men in the wedding party were attired in grey tuxedos accented with white shirts trimmed in dark grey.

The bride's mother chose to wear a floor length dress of pastel blue crepe. Mrs. Hannah, mother of the groom, wore a floor length dress of pink knit with matching jacket. They each wore a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Otis Russell, Wingo, and Mrs. Frank Butler, Viola, grandmothers of the bride, were presented corsages of white carnations.

Miss Lynn Hannah, sister of the groom, kept the guest register. She wore a floor length dress of pastel print with a corsage of white daisies.

Max Russell and Mark Russell, brothers of the bride, seated the guests who included family members and close friends of the bride and groom.

Buffet Supper

Following the ceremony the guests enjoyed an informal buffet supper served on the lawn.

The buffet table was overlaid with a long blue and white gingham cloth. Centering the table was a large watermelon cut with a scalloped edge, garlanded with ivy and yellow daisies and filled with a mixture of fresh fruits and melon balls.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. L. W. Lawrence, Mrs. Aubrey Eddings, Mrs. Doris Atherton, and Mrs. Ben Butler, aunts of the bride.

Mrs. Gerald Percy, sister of the groom, served at the bride's table which was overlaid with a white hand crocheted cloth over a blue underlining. Centering the table was the three tiered wedding cake decorated in yellow and topped with the miniature bride and groom statuette from the wedding cake of the bride's parents. The bride's bouquet also adorned this table.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Hannah are now residing in Murray both are attending Murray State University this fall.

Down the Garden Path

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

Now where did August go to? When I think of the things I was going to do in the garden during August, and check back on the list, I find I have accomplished very little.

I have just pulled a few weeds, pulled the grass back from a few flower beds and cultivated a bit, watered a lot and tried to escape the hot, humid weather. But I know at least, that every weed pulled up means that many less next year.

The same thing goes for the care of your lawn. Now is the time to fertilize, reseed or renew in any way an old worn-out lawn or one that simply needs reviving. A mixture of fescue, blue grass and annual ryegrass will make a complete lawn, and it is easy to fill in the blank spots, such as most of us have.

Perhaps the application of a little lime will be beneficial. Just scatter it evenly and sparsely all over the yard. The rains will soak it right into the ground and give just the needed push to old grass and new seed.

I have a fig tree that has gone through its second year and has been put in the greenhouse each winter. But I am going to set it out in the yard this next month and let it take the risks of an outdoor winter. It has become too heavy to move back and forth, and I have heard of several that have withstood extreme cold weather.

I will put it in a sheltered place if possible and mulch it heavily. It was a gift and I would like to see it grow and do well. I am especially fond of figs would certainly like to pick some off my own tree.

Have any of you ever planted an Alamanda? I had one given to me this summer and have enjoyed its constant blooming. It is a soft yellow, and the buds come in a cluster at the end of the branches. They open in a lovely trumpet shaped blossom and stay fresh for several days. It has not been without bloom all summer long and is a constant reminder of the various beautiful things that are created.

When you find a plant you have never had before, you are amazed at the complete variety of growing things. There is simply no end to them. That is why we can all find something to suit our needs and desires. It is a most fascinating study, and I can see why men and women through the ages, have dedicated their lives to plant study and the development of ## new species.

The new hybrid plants are far superior to the old ones. Usually easier to grow, have more blooms and are prettier. I wonder, however, if the new ones have the hardness of the old-time flowers that never needed any particular care and thrived under any conditions.

But how blessed we are, to be able to choose from such a wealth of beauty around our homes.

Telltale Signs to Catch A Cheat

DEAR ABBY: All I can say is, "thanks a whole bunch" for giving a husband a few tips on how he can tell if his wife has been out with another man: ("gets all dressed up to go shopping, comes home late, out of breath, with no packages, and her pantyhose inside out").

Well, there have been times when I got all dressed up to go shopping, came home late and out of breath with no packages, and maybe my pantyhose was inside out because that's the way I put it on, but it didn't mean I had been with another man!

I have a very jealous husband, and that item in your column sure didn't help matters much.

Since you gave men tips on how to tell if their wives are cheating, how about giving wives a few tips on how to tell if their husbands have been fooling around.

CAMILLUS, N.Y.

DEAR CAM: A cinch: When a husband suddenly starts wearing his best clothes to work, says he's working "overtime" but doesn't have the money to show for it, puts extra miles on the car, sometimes gets lost all day Saturday, smiles and whistles a lot and starts telling you what a great, understanding wife you are—watch out!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 52-year-old widow. I have a good job, my home is paid for and I'm able to take care of myself. I've been keeping company with a 34-year-old man for two years. (We are not living together.) We get along very well, but I can't see this relationship leading to marriage. I was very lonely before I met him, but when we are in public, I feel uncomfortable. I'm afraid people will think I am his mother. The age difference never seems to bother him, but it bothers me.

Also I'm afraid my daughter and son (they are 30 and 27) think I'm making a fool of myself.

What's wrong with me, Abby? Other widows my age would give their right arm to be in my shoes.

TOO OLD FOR HIM

DEAR TOO: Your signature is the tipoff. If you feel that you're too old for him, you are. If you can't rid yourself of that feeling, try an older model for comfort.

DEAR ABBY: "Warm in Georgia" asked if there was a dress code for church.

It seems a young married woman came to church in a halter with her bare middle showing. You said, "Common sense and a little old-fashioned respect for a house of worship are all the dress rules necessary."

Well, I'm only 17, but I could have given a better answer than yours. What the heck difference does it make what that girl wears to church? The point is that she's there worshipping God.

I'm sure it makes no difference to God if she was stark naked or wearing her Sunday best.

WORSHIPS IN CUTOFFS

DEAR WORSHIPS: It may make no difference to God, but how about a little consideration for the other worshippers?

New Residents Reported For New Concord; Bro. Hale Is Praised

By Estelle Spiceland

September 2, 1975

September is here again and we tear the page from the calendar and turn a new leaf. We realize that our years seem to grow shorter now.

Whereas we once welcomed Autumn as a time of relaxation, as we grow older, we with a feeling of sadness, know that Time is running out.

We heard young Steve Hale, perhaps a promising future Billy Graham, as he preached from Middle School's football stadium recently.

We hope that he and all others capable of influencing young people can impress them with the importance of living each day as if it were the last, for when the one great Scorer comes to write against a name, he will not ask, "Did you win or lose?" but how each played the game.

Concord's population takes turns increasing and decreasing. Just not it has increased since Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nance moved here from Hopkinsville and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bucy and little daughter live in a new trailer near Locke Montgomery's house. The Noel Smiths are glad to have for neighbors their daughter's family, the Hicks, who moved to the former Lloyd Perry house which Darrell Mitchell renovated.

Mrs. Lorene Smith is back at home on Concord Corner after two weeks in the Murray Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Patterson spent a week before schools opened with her parents in South Carolina. A deserved vacation.

Most all rural church revivals are past tense. Good Shepherd United Methodist Church waits until cooler weather, October 5, for its revival. This church, as all others, welcomes people from surrounding resorts, as well as local people, and appreciates newcomers now there.

Illness has caused the absence of Mrs. Esther Sigmon, the Walter Wilsons, and others. They are sadly missed.

Our sympathy is extended to all who are in sorrow.

Miss Dillard Married To P. D. Brown, Jr. At Methodist Church

Mr. and Mrs. Peyton David Brown, Jr.

At four-thirty o'clock on Saturday afternoon, August 9, in the sanctuary of the First United Methodist Church, Mayfield, Miss Carolyn Ruth Dillard, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Francis Jones Dillard, 800 Pryor Street, Mayfield, became the bride of Peyton David Brown, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Peyton D. Brown, Mayfield, Route 5.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the church pastor, the Rev. Jerry B. Carr.

Mrs. Betty Lahde, organist and Mrs. Mark Blankenship, vocalist, presented a program of nuptial music as the guests assembled. Mrs. Lahde's selections included "Jesus, Joy Of Man's Desiring", "O Perfect Love", and "Largo", and accompanied Mrs. Blankenship as she sang "The Wedding Song," "The Gift of Love", and "Annie's Song." The Lord's Prayer was sung during the ceremony.

Scores of white candles and greenery provided a background for the wedding. Centering the scene was an arched candelabra holding glowing white tapers, and spiral candelabra were placed within the choir loft. Outlining the altar rail were various foliages and magnolia and other greenery encircled white candles which were placed in the stained-glass windows. Focal point at the altar was a large arrangement of all-white flowers placed before the brass altar cross. Family pews were marked with white satin bows and magnolia foliage.

Bride's Gown

The young bride chose for her wedding a formal gown of candelight silk organza over bridal silk peau de soie, combined with English illusion and Brussels lace. A slight high-rise bodice was elegantly adorned with reemboirered appliques of Brussels lace motifs, and a Victorian neckline was etched in a self-ruffle. Bouffant gossamer sleeves were long and caught at the wrists with deep cuffs accented with organza flounces which were lace encrusted.

The gentle a-line skirt was poised over layers of peau de soie, unadorned except for the deep bias tiered flounce placed at the hemline. Each tier of the flounce was deeply etched in Brussels lace, attached with handmade silk cording. The skirt flowed gracefully into a cathedral train as she descended the aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage.

The bride's headdress was a mantilla-inspired formal-length veil of silk illusion, bordered in Brussels lace, and attached to a raised Juliet crown designed entirely of reemboirered Brussels lace, delicately detailed in the lace pattern with seed pearls.

She carried a bridal bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis, and roses, with variegated foliage, from which she presented a single white rose to her mother as she approached the altar, and a white rose to the bridegroom's mother as the bridal party left the altar after the ceremony.

The bride's only sister, Miss Elizabeth Ann Dillard, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia K. Shaw, Miss Kathy Jo Usher, Miss Connie Crowder, cousin of the D. McClure, Mr. and Mrs. John McDermitt, Mrs. Willie Rudd, all of Paducah, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Woods, and Mr. and Mrs. Acie Woods, of Benton.

Rehearsal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Peyton D. Brown entertained Friday evening, August 8, with a rehearsal dinner held at Holiday Inn, for the wedding party and families of Miss Dillard and their son.

The tables were beautifully decorated with arrangements of yellow and white daisies, baby's breath and variegated foliage, centered with white candles.

Guests were Miss Carolyn Dillard, Peyton David Brown, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Francis J. Dillard, Francis J. Dillard, Jr., Miss Betty Dillard and John Robert Dillard, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Grooms, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Crowder, Jr., Miss Connie Crowder, J. H. Crowder, III, Hal Crowder of South Hill, Virginia.

The Rev. and Mrs. Jerry Carr, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Fields, Misses Lea and Mel Fields, and Mr. and Mrs. Hal Higgins, Jim Heath, Miss Kathy Usher, Wesley Wright, Miss Cindy Slettvet, Danny Mills, Mrs. Betty Lahde, Mrs. Mark Blankenship, Miss Patricia Shaw, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

A coronet or apricot-tinted baby's breath was designed for her hair, and she carried clutches of gardenias.

The bridesmaids were attired identically to the honor attendant.

Miss Lee Fields, the flower girl, wore a floor-length gown of ivory reemboirered voile, accented with an apricot sash. The empire bodice was fashioned with a high neckline with self ruffles, and brief sleeves. The dirndl skirt was full and was accented with a deep bias flounce, poised over layers of imported cotton.

She carried a wicker basket of coral petals which she scattered as she preceded the bride to the altar.

Charles A. Woods, Jr., cousin of the bridegroom, of Lowes, served as best man. Groomsmen were Francis J. Dillard, Jr., brother of the bride; Larry G. Grooms, Wesley Wright and Jim Heath.

Hal Crowder, cousin of the bride, of South Hill, Virginia, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Dillard selected for her daughter's wedding a formal gown of maize chiffon combined with matching Alencon lace. The bodice was permanently pleated, with a tiny ruffle of lace at the jewel neckline. Long sleeves were cuffed in the lace detail. The slim skirt was also fashioned of pleated chiffon, with a deep border of Alencon lace rising from hemline to mid-knee. She wore matching accessories, and was presented a corsage of gardenias.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Brown, chose a formal gown of pale mocha georgettes with white Venice lace. A softened dirndl skirt fashioned entirely of the silk georgette was topped by the fitted bodice of lace. Long, slim sleeves were also of the lace, and a sculptured neckline was featured. She selected accessories of blending hue to complete her ensemble, and was presented a gardenia corsage.

Reception

Dr. and Mrs. Dillard entertained with a reception in the church's fellowship hall following the ceremony. The bride's table held the tiered wedding cake, and was decorated with candelabra arrangements of coral roses, fuji mums and baby's breath.

Assisting in serving were Miss Melanie Simpson, Miss Lisa Haugh, Miss Valerie Wright, Miss Debbie Gream, Miss Anne Jones and Miss Barbara Storie.

Following their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Brown are residing in College Courts at Murray, where the bride is a nursing student at Murray State University. Mr. Brown is an apprentice electrician with Beltline Electric in Paducah.

Among those who came from out-of-town for the wedding and reception were Mr. and Mrs.

How Much Are Your Eyes Worth?

What are your eyes worth? That's the question the Kentucky Society for Prevention of Blindness is asking this month, Sight Saving Month. Have you really thought about it? How much are your eyes worth?

If you're like most people, you probably can't put a price on your vision, because it's just too precious.

The society of engaged in programs to preserve sight and promote good eye health and safety practices.

Preventing blindness and conserving sight are positive approaches. To prevent a disease or accident, rather than treat it after it has occurred, is a much more practical, workable solution to effective health care. This is especially true where vision is lost, all too often it cannot be restored.

A major program of the society is preschool vision screening. An estimated one in 20 children in the 3-to-5 year age range has a vision problem. Some common eye disorders require treatment before the age of six if vision is to be effectively preserved. In community programs the Kentucky Society screened over 15,000 preschoolers last year.

Another activity, serving the 35 and over, is glaucoma screening.

During the past year 3,200 adults received a free glaucoma check at clinics in eleven different communities of the State. Early discovery of the disease assures early treatment—before there is any sight damage.

Eye safety has long received emphasis because accidents too often lead to needless impairment of vision or loss of sight. To encourage the public to safeguard vision, the Society promotes the Wise Owl Club—an incentive program encouraging the use of safety eyewear in industry and schools—advocates fireworks and toys regulation, and conducts an ongoing program of warning about harmful substances in the home.

The fact that of the 700 new cases of blindness in Kentucky this year, half will be needless underlines the importance of the organization's programs and the need for more of them.

Remember, blindness doesn't always happen to the other person...blindness prevention is for everyone.

Support your Kentucky Society for the Prevention of Blindness in its work. Its success depends on your involvement and your financial support.

Concept Of Jobless Statistics Questioned

NEW YORK (AP) — Does that 8.4 per cent unemployment rate depict the real state of affairs in the job market today or is it another of those statistics that seem to float, unanchored to reality?

Criticism of labor statistics isn't uncommon. Academics, labor leaders, businessmen and others maintain there are defects of definition, concept and technique that result in an inaccurate picture.

A bit surprising is the position taken by Julius Shiskin, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The debate, he says, is healthy. By inference he suggests the criticisms might possibly have some validity.

Conceding there are "widespread points of view" on the accuracy of government jobless surveys, Shiskin said in an interview that he has recommended that a blue ribbon committee be appointed to review concepts.

If Labor Secretary John Dunlop agrees, Shiskin said he hopes the committee will be formed before the year is out. Existing concepts are the product of a similar committee's work 13 years ago.

The call for a re-examination comes at a critical time. The government relies on at least two surveys for its figures, a survey of households and one of employers. During the summer the two surveys varied on the number of jobless.

Shiskin minimizes the differences in the two sets of figures, both of which he said are used in the final compilations. "Quite often there is a divergence," he said. "It's a natural kind of thing. We were not alarmed."

The differences, he said, are usually short-lived. In fact, the August jobless figures showed the divergence was cut sharply. But, the critics ask, why should differences exist at all if the concepts are correct?

Asked if the household survey might have found fewer jobless individuals than would be the case because unemployed workers were away on vacations, Shiskin answered that the possibility was taken into consideration.

But one critic, Albert Sindlinger of Sindlinger & Co., which compiles its own jobless figures from surveys of 1,125 households a week, currently has one million fewer employed and one million more unemployed than the government.

Sindlinger is critical of government techniques. "When they find nobody home they go next door until they do. And the reason that family is home is because the breadwinner has a job and can't be away on vacation."

This, he said, distorts the employed figures upward, the unemployed downward.

The very definition of unemployment, it seems, is itself the cause of further confusion. Shiskin points to one: a student who cannot find a summer job is considered jobless in the same sense as a head of household.

Internal Revenue Is Going To Be The Death Of Me Yet!

By M. C. Garrott

The Internal Revenue Service is going to be the death of me yet!

For the past several months, I have been receiving, periodically and for some unexplained reason, a notice from the IRS informing me that my tax rebate or refund, I really don't know which, had been adjusted by $19.16—downward, of course. I had owed them. Had it been the other way around, I probably would never have heard from them.

The first time that brown, official-looking envelope with the picture windowed address arrived, I was reluctant to open it. I don't like to get mail from the government, particularly from the IRS. If they'll leave me alone, I'll leave them alone—that's my policy.

I was much relieved upon opening the first notice, however, to find out what it was all about, and quickly requested a management meeting with the wife. A decision was quick in coming. We would not fight for the $19.16. We decided we would just try to struggle along through another year without it, since the IRS said it rightfully was theirs. We would not make a big federal case of it.

We failed, however, to inform the IRS office at Memphis, where we are based, of this decision. Apparently, that is necessary.

Once you get a government program going, it's hard to stop it, they say, and I suppose this is true with mailings. The computers, probably waiting to be notified of our action, one way or the other, have since continued to spit out the same mailing to us.

We have been getting a new notice but with the same information every now and then since. Thinking this was simply a notification form we were getting, I thought it kind of wasteful of the government to keep sending them to me, and even thought about writing Washington about it.

You want to be careful about getting Washington involved, however. The Lord only knows what could happen if that step is taken. It would be just my luck to have the IRS get things so twisted up they'd soon have my home, my car and even my faithful and dependable 3-wheeler!

So, the other day when another of those official envelopes arrived, I just took a minute and formally informed the Memphis Office of our acceptance of the

Letter To The Editor

Against ERA

Dear Editor:

My apprehension grows as I observe that the Equal Rights Amendment is now only four states short of being ratified.

I read an analysis of ERA from the Yale Law Journal, Volume 80, No. 5, April, 1971, and this amendment does not speak for me.

Under the guise of "Equal pay for equal work," ERA will open the following Pandora's box upon us and our children:

1. Registration for the draft of women at age 18, subject to all military duties including combat and the sharing of barracks and all military facilities by both sexes.

2. Complete integration of the sexes in prisons, school and public restrooms, college dormitories and hospital rooms.

3. Revolutionizing of existing divorce laws, exempting husbands from paying alimony and making him eligible for child support if he gets the children.

4. Homosexuals will be allowed to marry and adopt children.

5. All protective labor laws for women in industry will be abolished.

Naturally, proponents of ERA do not inform others that equal pay is guaranteed already by the Equal Opportunities Act of 1972.

If you do not want this in the future of your children, write to your state legislators and ask them to vote to rescind ERA in 1976.

"Low Down"

FROM THE

Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

INFECTED BLOOD PLASMA LOOPHOLE DISCLOSED BY FDA

SENATOR GEORGE McGOVERN (S. Dak.). "In the last 20 years, 30,000 Americans died after receiving infected blood transfusions. In the name of free enterprise, unscrupulous commercial blood banks opened in this country and abroad. Poor people, sick people, ill-fed people, alcoholics, and drug addicts have tried to support themselves by selling their blood..."

"Blood collection companies operating outside this country pay little heed to donor health or the frequency of donation. One woman in the Philippines for example, bled herself to death attempting to support her family. An American blood collection company operating in Haiti paid its donors $3 per liter of plasma. The company then sold the plasma in the United States for $23..."

"It is currently illegal to use imported blood plasma for human patients unless the manufacturer is licensed by the Federal Drug Administration (FDA)...However, many observers of the situation suspect that large quantities of imported plasma are finding their way into hospitals illicitly..."

"I believe that this situation may well demand legislative attention in the near future...I ask unanimous consent that (an) article by Mark Winiarski be printed in the Record." (Excerpts follow):

Kansas City, Mo.—An international trade in human blood plasma is thriving with the Aid of American and Western European pharmaceutical companies.

"American companies are offering fabulous sums of money to endorse commercial blood collection," Robert Martin, assistant director of International Services, American Red Cross, said. He would not name the companies.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulates only the market for plasma for human use. Federal standards specify the health of the donor, the quality of the blood and frequency of donation. The FDA conducts annual inspections of companies dealing in plasma for human use.

But there is no regulation of the traffic in plasma for laboratory use, a loophole you could drive a truck through," according to an FDA official.

Both the World Health Organization and the International Red Cross have declared themselves virtually powerless to act, Red Cross spokesman Martin said. "There is nothing we can do."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

A hospital patient has to accept a blood transfusion on faith. The Senator's statement that, "30,000 Americans died after receiving infected blood transfusions," is hard to believe unless supported by some itemized facts.

Effective Complaints Get Better Results

Defective Purchases

By Ed W. Hancock, Attorney General

If your latest purchase is defective—you've got a gripe. To have your problem resolved may depend on how you complain. Are you an effective complainer, or just a noisemaker?

To complain effectively, calm down and examine your problem. Decide what your specific complaint is and immediately contact the person or company that sold you the product.

If you complain in person, take the purchase receipt and guarantee or warranty with you. Quietly and concisely state your complaint. If the salesperson or company representative says he cannot act on your problem, ask to speak to the highest person in authority. Don't allow yourself to be put off by "buckpassing" techniques.

If you're not getting any satisfaction from the store owner or manager, direct a written complaint to the manufacturer. The public library or local Better Business Bureau can help you to locate the manufacturer's address.

When you complain by mail, be sure to include the brand name, model number, size, color and any other detail which would identify the product. Compose a letter explicitly describing your problem. If you send any documents—send a copy, not the original. Be sure to keep all papers and copies of correspondence. If you need to return the merchandise, be sure to get it insured.

By making a complaint to the store or manufacturer, you are letting them know whether their goods and services are reliable and worthwhile. Valid complaints often will be resolved and the information appreciated. Also, effective complaining can prevent other consumers from experiencing the same problem.

If your "gripe" is not resolved, or you have any consumer question, write to the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, the Capitol—Room 34, Frankfort, Ky., 40601. Kentucky consumers may call toll-free on the consumer hotline by dialing 1-800-372-2960.

New Rights For Mental Patients

By F.J.L. Blassingame, M.D.

BLASSINGAME

The United States Supreme Court recently made a unanimous landmark decision affecting the civil rights of certain mental patients. The Court ruled that these patients had the right to be treated or else released from confinement in state hospitals if they were not dangerous to themselves and other persons.

This decision directly involves about 250,000 patients who may be capable of "living safely in freedom" and who will now be allowed to do so.

This court decision was based on the case of a Florida man who had been confined for 15 years to the Florida State Hospital at Chattahoochee because he was a paranoid schizophrenic. He was considered harmless to himself and others and required no treatment.

Writing for the Court, Justice Potter Stewart said, "A finding of 'mental illness' alone cannot justify a state's locking up a person against his will and keeping him indefinitely in simple custodial confinement. There is no constitutional basis for confining mentally ill persons involuntarily if they are dangerous to no one and can live safely in freedom."

The case applies to civil cases and not to those patients who have committed a crime.

This Supreme Court decision has considerable economic consequences to those people who leave their confinement from state institutions, particularly those who have been confined for many years. Can industry adjust and employ some of these persons, even after some training and rehabilitation?

Families and government have new opportunities and obligations to support these people by helping them become productive when feasible and creating circumstances which permit their "living safely in freedom," even if they are not employable.

Q Miss E. E. says that she has bad breath and wants suggestions about what to do to relieve it.

A: Relief of bad breath usually requires more than the use of mouth wash and toothpaste. The cause should be determined by a physician and a case may require careful "detective work" to find the diagnosis so that appropriate treatment can be carried out. Some of the sources include decaying teeth, inflamed gums, infected tonsils, sinusitis, enlarged bronchial tubes (bronchiectasis), or low acid in the stomach (causing odors from the stomach). Diet may be the cause, such as garlic or onions. As you can see, the diagnosis is not a simple matter.

Q Mr. W. H. wants to know what is meant by a resident physician and how far along he is in his training.

A: A resident physician has completed his premedical course, graduated from a medical school and is in his postgraduate training, usually in a hospital. The average residency lasts for three years in some special field of education and training, such as surgery, medicine, or pediatrics. Some special residency programs may be for a total of four or five years.

New Home Purchase Certificate Required For Income Tax Credit

If you have purchased a new home this year—one that was under construction before March 26, 1975—you may be entitled to claim up to $2,000 credit against your 1975 Federal income tax.

But before any taxpayer can claim that credit, he or she must have a statement from the seller certifying that the purchase price of the home is the lowest price at which the residence was offered for sale after February 28, 1975.

The certificate—to be attached to the home buyer's income tax return—is required, says the Internal Revenue Service, to prevent fraudulent transactions affecting the amount of the taxpayer's credit. For any false statement the seller faces criminal and civil penalties, warns the IRS.

The IRS, however, has not issued an official form for the certification of the price of the home and leaves the responsibility to the taxpayer to acquire such a statement.

To qualify for the credit, according to H. & R. Block, the following conditions must be met:

- (1) The home must be a new principal residence of original use (meaning a place where the taxpayer lives most of the year and where no one else has ever lived before).
- (2) The construction of the home must have begun before March 26, 1975. (The date was chosen earlier this year as a stimulus for the purchase of new homes which were not selling and designed to help the sagging home building industry in a time of recession).

- (3) The home must be acquired after March 12, 1975 and before January 1, 1977.
- (4) A binding contract for the purchase of the residence must be entered into before January 1, 1976.
- (5) The buyer must attach to his income tax return a certification by the seller that the purchase price is the lowest price at which the residence was offered for sale—

after February 28, 1975.

The cut-off date—sanctions price increases (up until February 28) on a new and unsold home which was on the market for months or years and on which the price was raised due to inflation. However, the selling price must be the lowest offered after that date in order for the taxpayer to qualify for the credit.

Tax researchers at H & R Block add also that the credit is available on a new home constructed by the taxpayer himself, if construction began before March 13, 1975.

Anyone desiring more information about the certificate or the qualifications for the tax credit may contact Joyce Wright, city manager for H & R Block at 903 Arcadia, Murray. The telephone number is 753-9204.

A recent article in the Charlotte News rates various shampoos according to their pH—their relative acidity or alkalinity.

This article states that, "Your hair will benefit if you use a shampoo that is slightly acidic—from 4.5 to 5.5 on the pH scale."

The article goes on to state, "A shampoo that is alkaline will cause itchy scalp and peeling... Eventually it could make some hair fall out because it gets down into pores and damages the follicles."

Markham Vitamin and Protein Enriched Shampoo which tested at 5.5 is within the range considered best. The above photograph indicates the relative pH of all the shampoos tested. How does yours rate?

*On the zero-to-14 pH scale, seven is neutral and anything above seven is alkaline, below seven is acidic.

737 Fans Show Up To Watch Braves Falter

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

As a long, dreary season winds down, the Atlanta Braves find themselves going no place fast. The fans are going everywhere fast—except, of course, to Atlanta Stadium.

It took the fifth-place Braves only four days to top the all-time attendance low they set Thursday night, when 1,062 people crossed the turnstiles for a 2-1 victory over San Diego. Monday night, with no threat of rain and temperatures in the mid-70s, 737 spectators crammed into 52,744 seats for a 9-6 loss to the Houston Astros—the only National League club with a worse record.

"It's the low ebb in a long season," offered Bob Hope, the Braves' Director of Public Relations. "This is the longest we've been out of contention in years. It's late in the season, and the fan appeal's a little dim right now."

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati topped San Diego 3-2, Los Angeles blanked San Francisco 4-0, Pittsburgh defeated Chicago 4-1, Philadelphia tripped St. Louis 6-3 and Montreal beat New York 6-5 and 6-1 in a two-night double-header.

Houston's Cesar Cedeno hit two home runs and had six RBI before the Braves' biggest non-crowd of the season, almost singlehandedly raising the Astros' record to 56-88 and bringing them within 41 games of first place.

Cedeno also rapped a two-run double in a three-run Houston first. His solo homer made it 4-0 in the third inning.

High School Grid Coach Reprimanded By Board

MADISONVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Madisonville High School football coach Bernard Brant has been reprimanded for actions on the field during a game with Christian County on Aug. 29.

The reprimand came late Monday from the Hopkins County Board of Education, which previously had suspended Brant from coaching.

Brant allegedly was angered during the Madisonville-Christian County game when a 15-yard penalty was assessed on Madisonville because its band was late in leaving the field after halftime ceremonies.

The coach reportedly admonished the band director, drawing protests the next day from parents supporting a band boosters organization.

Brant was not present during Madisonville's loss last week-end to Union County.

Harold Peyton, superintendent of the county board, said in a prepared statement that "the board finds that Mr. Brant behaved in a manner unbecoming as a teacher and coach and that his actions in a public place before students, school patrons and visitors was of such a nature as to bring embarrassment upon himself."

"Therefore, Brant is hereby reprimanded by the Board for his unbecoming behavior and also is admonished to take the necessary self disciplinary measure required to assure that no further such lapses in behavior shall occur either in language or other matter of personal deportment," the statement said.

The vote on the reprimand was unanimous, Peyton said.

Brant's suspension, which began Sept. 2, was to be lifted effective today, the board ruled.

Evans' two-run homer in the seventh inning had given Atlanta a 5-4 lead.

Reds 3, Padres 2

Johnny Bench's 26th homer of the year, a two-run shot in the eighth-inning lifted the NL West champions past San Diego. Willie McCovey's 18th homer of the year had given the Padres a 2-1 lead they held until the eighth.

Dodgers 4, Giants 0

Steve Yeager's two-run single highlighted a three-run Los Angeles eighth inning and backed Andy Messersmith's three-hit pitching in the Dodgers' triumph over San Francisco.

It was the sixth shutout of the season for Messersmith, 16-14, while John Montefusco, 13-8, took the loss.

Pirates 4, Cubs 1

Back in the division with a pennant race, the Pirates extended their NL East lead to 6½ games over St. Louis and seven games over Philadelphia behind a combined six-hitter by Dock Ellis, in his first start since his two-week suspension, and Ramon Hernandez.

Phillies 6, Cards 3

Greg Luzinski, who admits he hasn't been doing the job, did it Monday night. His single and double drove in three runs, raising his league-leading RBI total to 110 and carrying Philadelphia past St. Louis. He had driven in just four runs with his last 47 at-bats.

Expos 6-6, Mets 5-1

Right-hander Don Carithers scattered eight hits as the Expos whipped New York after Pat Scanlon's one-out, bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth inning gave Montreal the opener.

Cross Country Team Will Be Best Ever

The Ohio Valley Conference is known for having the best cross country in the United States.

And Western Kentucky University is known for always having one of the top cross country teams in the country. With Nick Rose, Tony Staynings and English crew, Western has gained world-wide press.

However, things might be changing. No, the conference isn't getting any weaker, nor is Western. But guess who's getting stronger.

It's still probably a couple of years away but Murray State is soon going to be one of the best cross country teams in the nation. The Racers have three Englishmen on the team this year, with one more in school but currently ineligible this season.

Sunday afternoon, Racer Coach Bill Cornell took his team out for a five-mile time trial. The results were surprising.

The best time on the five-mile course was a 24:26.2 by former All-American Sam Torres. His mark not only fell Sunday, it was broken three times.

Sophomore Englishman Brian Rutter crossed the line in 23:39, breaking Torres' old mark by over 47 seconds. In second place was sophomore Englishman Martyn Brewer with 24:00 and third was freshman Englishman Ralph Cheek with a 24:17.

Junior college transfer Ron Stetina had a 24:56 while letterman Bob Arnett finished in 25:08.

"This is going to be the best team I've ever had before," Cornell said. "It seems we're getting tougher every year."

The cross country team will open its season Saturday at Southern Illinois-Edwardsville in a triangular. Also on hand will be Lincoln University.

Baseball Schedule

Because of the Ohio Valley Conference's decision to eliminate fall baseball division play, Murray State will only be playing scrimmage games this fall. That means Murray must play 12 conference games next spring in addition to the usual heavy spring schedule.

The scrimmage games will be regular games with the teams in uniform and scores kept but the statistics will not count nor will the wins or losses.

For those interested fans, here's a brief look at the fall season:

On September 26, the 'Breds will open the season at Union. On the 27th, Mineral Area Junior College will be at Reagan Field for a jayvee game. On the 30th, the varsity is at October 1 will find the jayvees at Paducah Community College. On the 2nd, Lambuth is here for a varsity game. UTM is here for a varsity game on the 7th and on the ninth, PCC is at Reagan Field for a jayvee contest.

Union will be here on the 11th, the 'Breds will go to UTM on the 13th and on the 14th, the jayvees are at Paducah. The final varsity game is on the 16th of October at Lambuth.

Try Again

Usually by Tuesday morning, the aftermath of a game like Friday's in which Murray High lost to Reidland is gone.

What the mood is in the Tiger camp this week is simply: try again. What more can you ask of the defense?

Defensively, Murray High did not play that badly in the 19-14 loss. When the offense runs seven series of plays in the last half and turns it over seven times, it has to demoralize and also physically and emotionally drain the defensive unit.

Inexperience played a big part in the loss. But you only get experience by playing. Friday night, the Tigers are at home against a rebuilding Henry County club.

Then the following Friday, it's the rest of the season in one night. Having already lost once in the Class AA District race, the Tigers must beat Mayfield on the 19th. If they don't, then the race is probably all over.

The game with the Patriots Friday night will be important, as far as the won-loss column. But as far as the District race, it means nothing and so the Tigers should be able to forget about last week and the jitters of the first game, forget about what happened and settle down and play football to prepare for Mayfield.

Win Meals At Rudy's

Last week's question for the free meal at Rudy's was a baseball quiz. It was: Name the only pitcher who has ever defeated Bob Gibson three times in one season.

The answer: Tom Seaver. Carl Miller and John Kochon were the winners. This week, we'll have two more meals up for grabs before returning to the one meal, regular contest next week.

This week's question: What Ohio Valley Conference school has the best composite football record, counting only conference games?

If you think you have the answer, call at 5 p. m. Thursday at 753-6977.

Former Olympic Winner Says Foreign Athletes Are 'Pros'

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Olympic gold medal winner says the Olympic Games no longer are limited to amateur athletes but have become a competition among professionals as well, putting U.S. participants at a disadvantage.

Ellie Daniel, two-time Olympic and swimming gold medalist, said in a statement prepared for release today: "The Olympics have as a fact ceased to consist of a competition among amateurs...and have instead become a competition among some amateurs, some semi-or quasi-professionals, and an increasing number of professionals in the full sense of the term."

Because of the trend, Miss Daniel said, "American athletes will increasingly find themselves bettered by their foreign counterparts, and will increasingly question the worth of training and sacrificing for international competition," knowing that foreign athletes will compete with the advantage of subsidized training.

Miss Daniel, winner of a gold medal in the butterfly in the 1968 Games in Mexico City and a bronze at Munich in 1972, made her comments in prepared remarks for the President's Commission on Olympic Sports, which opened a year-long study in amateur athletics with a two-day session in Washington.

The meetings are the first of

Pitcher Of Month

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Burt Hooton's 6-0 record for the Los Angeles Dodgers in August earned him the National League Pitcher of the Month award today.

The New York Mets' Tom Seaver, 5-0 for the month, and Cincinnati Reds reliever Rawly Eastwick tied for second in voting for the award. Hooton received 43 votes, Seaver and Eastwick six apiece.

Cincinnati first baseman Tony Perez was named Player of the Month after hitting .398 with three homers and 26 RBI.

Hooton, who was traded by the Chicago Cubs to the Dodgers in May had an August earned run average of 1.06. He pitched three complete games, two of them shutouts.

Injuries Causing Problems So Teams Ask For More Players

BY TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With major injuries striking at least half of the National Football League, the Players Association has asked the owners to reconsider an earlier decision and expand squad sizes from the present 43 to last year's 47.

Kermit Alexander, president of the player's union, said a return to the 1974 team limit, even if some of the players were on a taxi, or reserve, squad, "will allow fans to see a more interesting game and will lessen the pressure on team doctors, trainers and players themselves performing with an injury."

The 26 NFL owners voted during their June meeting in New York to reduce squad sizes to 43 players, with no taxi squad, as a matter of economics because, they said, more than half the teams lost money last year.

Monday, a NFL spokesman said the player limit was one of the things which the league wanted to negotiate with the players union.

"Our role as the Management Council in the player limit is that we have a mandate from the clubs to bargain it with the players union," said Terry Bledsoe. "But (NFLPA Executive Director Ed) Garvey stopped that...he stopped the whole process."

Bledsoe referred to Garvey's letter to the Management Council which, in effect, states the NFLPA directors may not accept an agreement even if the players vote to ratify it.

The players union opposed the decrease in team size because it would mean a loss of some 182 jobs because, the association said, teams averaged about 53 players per squad in 1974, including those who were injured.

Under the rules this year, only three players may be placed on the injured reserve list with the rest being put on non-recallable waivers at the end of the season and could be lost to a team.

Alexander said at the time that "the owners' decision places tremendous pressure on coaches and team doctors to keep an injured player on the active list in order to protect him for the future."

The union president pointed to what he described as an unusually high number of serious injuries to first team and front line veterans during the exhibition season in urging the owners to expand the squad limits.

As examples of the players who were injured and will be out for the season or for a number of weeks into the regular season, Alexander cited quarterbacks Jim Plunkett of New England, Al Woodall of the New York Jets, Archie Manning of New Orleans, Bob Barry of Minnesota and Bill Munson of Detroit.

Hearing Held On Power Rates Monday In Lexington

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — "Services don't put anything in your stomach," a 76-year-old Shepherdsville woman told a special commission studying electric rates and regulations.

Annetta Cubertson, testifying here Monday at a public hearing on electrical rates, said the elderly and persons on fixed incomes are hard pressed to pay their bills.

Howard Rupard, an officer with the Lexington-Fayette County Metro Police Department, told the commission he has no choice about where he buys electricity.

"You can't do comparison shopping on utilities," he said. "You can go to different groceries and compare the price of eggs... but you can't do that with electricity."

Rupard said he has no complaints about his electrical service from Kentucky Utilities but complained about the fuel adjustment charge.

"The amount of the increase is so quick—that's what kills me," he said, adding that his pay has increased by only 6 percent in the last year—while his fuel adjustment charge has jumped by several hundred percent.

"How can I budget when I don't know what it's going up to?" he asked.

E.K. Bristow, president of the Shepherdsville-based Concerned Consumers of Electrical Energy, recommended that the utilities' rate and billing structure be "turned around" to encourage conservation of electricity.

"The way it is set up now, it encourages more use," he said, pointing out that those who use less pay more per kilowatt hour, while large users of electricity pay less per unit.

Bristow, who said he represents some 17,000 members of the Salt River Rural Electric Cooperative and other RECC members throughout the state, made several other recommendations to the commission.

—Placing a six month ceiling on the low of the fuel adjustment charge added to electric bills, and phasing out that charge within one year.

Bristow said consumers are unhappy with the fuel adjustment charge because it is unregulated—the utility may add on whatever it says it needs to cover increased costs. Bristow instead advocated that utilities be required to come before the Public Service Commission and prove they need a rate increase to meet increased costs.

—Creating an independent consumer protection agency to represent the consumers' interests. Such a board would be 51 percent consumers, he said.

At their regular bi-weekly meeting in Frankfort earlier Monday, the special commission heard testimony from Gary Alexander, the people's counsel to the Maryland Public Service Commission, who represents consumers before federal regulatory agencies—Independent of the commission. Bristow said the agency he has in mind would perform a similar function.)

—Requiring appliances to be clearly labeled as to the amount of electricity they use. "That would tell a consumer how much it will cost to operate and whether he can afford it," Bristow said.

—Discounting utility rates on a given number of kilowatt hours for persons over 65 so they can afford basic electrical needs.

Bristow said his group has taken a spot check of electrical users in his area and he said many—particularly those on fixed incomes—were paying utility bills out of funds they had saved, or were unable to pay the electric bills at all.

W.A. Duncan, president of Kentucky Utilities Co., told the commission that KU's rates—despite recent increase—still compare very favorably with other consumer rates.

He also said the cost of constructing new generating plants means the company must continue to raise large sums of money and maintain its earnings "at a level that will permit us to attract that capital on reasonable cost and terms."

Carroll said he believed he should personally prepare his statement on the dam, proposed for Powell County. He said he already has spent "countless hours of study and consideration" on the matter.

"During the next two days, I will devote to the announcement of my decision sufficient time to properly reflect the thoroughness of the research and fact-finding that has brought us this far," he said.

"The responsibility for this decision and what it means for many Kentuckians and many other interested Americans does not rest lightly with me," he said. "I know that the effort through which evidence on all sides of this question has been gathered has been strenuous and detailed."

Carroll previously delayed a decision until he received an archeological report on the Red River Gorge, which he got last week.

That report said 76 prehistoric sites found there, 34 of them in the previous three weeks, indicate the gorge could be one of the most important archeological areas in the eastern United States.

Archeologist C. Wesley Cowan reported that only a small portion of the gorge had been examined and "We feel certain that the area must contain many, many more as yet unrecorded archeological sites."

The Kentucky Heritage Commission's Executive Committee and Protection Committee recommended that the entire gorge be nominated for the National Register of Historic Places. That would protect the gorge from some human destruction but would not necessarily block the dam.

Robert Gable, Carroll's Republican opponent in the governor's race this fall, has come out against the dam.

It was supported by former Gov. Wendell Ford, a Democrat, who unseated Republican Marlow Cook, an opponent of the dam, in last year's Senate race.

The dam has been a matter of controversy for Kentucky governors for years, beginning with Edward T. Breathitt, who served from 1963 to 1967. His successor, former Gov. Louie B. Nunn, succeeded in having the site moved downstream to lessen flooding in the gorge.

Carroll To Announce Position On Red River Gorge On Thursday

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Julian Carroll says he will announce his position on the proposed Red River Dam Thursday, two to three days later than previously planned.

Carroll said in a statement Monday that his announcement was delayed by his involvement in helping Louisville and Jefferson County officials deal with disturbances arising from the school busing issue there.

Carroll said he believed he should personally prepare his statement on the dam, proposed for Powell County. He said he already has spent "countless hours of study and consideration" on the matter.

"During the next two days, I will devote to the announcement of my decision sufficient time to properly reflect the thoroughness of the research and fact-finding that has brought us this far," he said.

"The responsibility for this decision and what it means for many Kentuckians and many other interested Americans does not rest lightly with me," he said. "I know that the effort through which evidence on all sides of this question has been gathered has been strenuous and detailed."

Carroll previously delayed a decision until he received an archeological report on the Red River Gorge, which he got last week.

That report said 76 prehistoric sites found there, 34 of them in the previous three weeks, indicate the gorge could be one of the most important archeological areas in the eastern United States.

Archeologist C. Wesley Cowan reported that only a small portion of the gorge had been examined and "We feel certain that the area must contain many, many more as yet unrecorded archeological sites."

The Kentucky Heritage Commission's Executive Committee and Protection Committee recommended that the entire gorge be nominated for the National Register of Historic Places. That would protect the gorge from some human destruction but would not necessarily block the dam.

Robert Gable, Carroll's Republican opponent in the governor's race this fall, has come out against the dam.

It was supported by former Gov. Wendell Ford, a Democrat, who unseated Republican Marlow Cook, an opponent of the dam, in last year's Senate race.

The dam has been a matter of controversy for Kentucky governors for years, beginning with Edward T. Breathitt, who served from 1963 to 1967. His successor, former Gov. Louie B. Nunn, succeeded in having the site moved downstream to lessen flooding in the gorge.

Businessman's Corner LET'S TALK ABOUT NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

This series of columns is prepared by the advertising staff of The Murray Ledger & Times. Left to right are Barbara Alexander, advertising manager; and Frank Gonzales and Debra Miller, sales people. Contact any one of them at 753-1919 for assistance with your advertising program.

MAKING YOUR ADVERTISING BELIEVABLE AND WHY

In spite of the drastic changes that have taken place in American society in the past twenty years, some business people still do not see the value of being completely honest in their advertising. Although outlawed, bait & switch ads still appear in publications, (where a "low-ball" price is advertised with the intention of selling a higher priced product after the customer is brought in), and the businessmen advertising in this manner scream to high heaven when caught in the act.

There are, of course, many ways to fool the reader of newspaper ads, through insinuating remarks, half-truths, quoting unusually low prices on one-of-a-kind-in-stock products as though you had a warehouse full of them, and other copywriting ruse. But, even if the advertiser gets away with this advertising, without involving himself in a legal complaint, he is still in for a rude awakening which will inevitably come from his would-be customers.

The businessman who allows dishonest statements to creep into his advertising copy is only fooling himself. How many times will a customer visit your place of business if he finds that what you had advertised is out of stock the same day your ad appeared in the paper? How many times will a customer return, in response to your advertising, after once being pressured to buy another product because the one he came in for is "sold out"? In short, how many times is it possible to make fools of your customers? Usually just once!

So what happens to the "sharpie" trying to outfox the buying public? Little by little he drives what could have been a nice clientele down the street to the man who is completely honest in all of his advertising.

There used to be a saying among advertising men that went something like this: "Write all of your advertising copy as though you were talking to a 9 year old, and most of the people will respond." It is difficult to recall a time when this may have been true, but if it ever was true it surely is not today. Since the advent of American thinking that demanded almost every young person should go to college, and the massive return-to-school of older adults who had previously not finished their formal education, today's advertising is being read and evaluated by the most intelligent society the world has ever known. Even the elderly are far more sophisticated in their thinking than ever before. Is it any wonder that dishonesty in advertising doesn't pay? Of course, there are still a few die-hards around who advertise like they were selling snake oil off a horse-drawn wagon.

Summing it up, the benefits to the advertiser, of forthright advertising, should be glaringly obvious. It is utter foolishness, and even legally dangerous, to advertise in any other manner.

Whatever your individual advertising problem may be remember, this newspaper maintains a staff that is ready, willing and well equipped to serve you. From the standpoint of the service you receive from these people you couldn't possibly find a better bargain!

New York Teachers Threaten Walkout; To Affect 1.1 Million

By NICK TATRO

Associated Press Writer
New York City teachers vowed to shut down the nation's largest school system today with a lengthy strike that could add 1.1 million pupils to the thousands kept home by walkouts in a dozen states.

Meanwhile, several thousand students returned to classes after settlements in scattered strikes Monday. Pay boosts for teachers in the new contracts ranged from about 3 per cent to 10.5 per cent.

School officials said New York City's 950 schools would open for the second day of the fall term despite the strike but advised handicapped pupils and those riding school buses to stay home.

Contract negotiations, held in the shadow of a fiscal crisis that could result in the city's going bankrupt, broke off Monday night.

School board spokesmen said the strike was illegal and a court order would be sought under a law that bans strikes by public employees.

Scattered strikes by more than 50,000 teachers affected about 1 million students elsewhere in the nation.

In Chicago, summer vacation continued today for 530,000 pupils as negotiations continued without significant progress. Supt.-elect Joseph P. Hannon said the sole issue remaining in the week-old strike by 27,000 teachers was money.

The union's House of Delegates voted 623 to 2 Monday against a one year extension of the old contract with a wage-reopener clause if the legislature should find extra money for the 666 city public schools.

In Pennsylvania, teacher walkouts continued in 23 school districts, with teachers in another six districts claiming they were locked out. Disputes involved 7,015 teachers and 145,391 students.

Contract agreements have yet to be reached in 112 districts. Classes were held anyway but some teachers have set dates for walkouts.

Strikes began Monday in Mercer County at Reynolds District with 125 teachers and 2,580 pupils, and Sharon, 235 teachers and 4,100 pupils. Walkouts ended in two Schuylkill County districts: Tamaqua Area with 122 teachers and 3,200 pupils; and Mahanoy Area with 90 teachers and 1,500 students. Both strikes began Sept. 3.

Mahanoy teachers will get $850 this year and an extra $1,000 next year, plus a $300 state-ordered increase each year. The teachers averaged $10,059 before the settlement.

Encephalitis Reaches Epidemic Proportions In Jefferson Co.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A state health official, reacting after six cases of viral encephalitis were confirmed in the Louisville-area, has declared that the disease has reached "epidemic" proportions in Jefferson County.

However, the spokesman for the Kentucky Bureau of Health Services said Monday that no other cases of the "St. Louis" strain of the disease, also known as sleeping sickness, have been confirmed in the state.

About 45 persons in Kentucky are suspected of having the disease, but it has not been confirmed through blood tests that they have it, officials said.

Dr. Thomas S. Wallace Jr., director of the Louisville-Jefferson County Health Department said persons should take some precautions but that they should not become unduly alarmed by the "epidemic" designation.

That tag is applied when more than an average number of cases of a disease are confirmed, he said.
Stephanie Lynn Gardner, a five-year-old Crestwood girl, died Sunday of a disease her physician said was encephalitis. The spokesman for the state said, however, that chances were "practically nil" that she died of St. Louis encephalitis. The last encephalitis epidemic in Louisville occurred in 1956. The St. Louis strain was responsible that year for 12 deaths.

"We've got to get out of the mosquito-breeding season before we can be comfortable," Wallace said.

In Atlanta, the Center for Disease Control reported it had received 30 reports of deaths caused by encephalitis in the entire nation.

Encephalitis outbreaks diminish when nighttime temperatures drop into the 50s, inhibiting the activity of mosquitoes which transmit the disease to humans usually picking it up from birds which have been infected by other mosquitoes, a spokesman for the center said.

Symptoms of the disease include fever, headache, dizziness, stiffness in the back of the neck, lethargy, confusion, failure of muscular coordination and difficulty in speaking.

Detective, Blinded In Riot, To Still Have Police Position

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A young detective, blinded in one eye during an antibusing riot, managed a weak smile when he learned he still has a job on the police force, despite his injury.

Michael Doughty, a 26-year-old bachelor, was one of scores of officers injured last Friday night during a brick and bottle throwing battle between police and about 10,000 antibusing demonstrators.

He was struck in the eye by a projectile hurled from a sling-shot type device.

Doughty received bad news Monday that was not unexpected — all attempts to save his eye had failed.

"They just broke the word," said Russell McDaniel, 46, chief of the 400-man Jefferson County Police Department. "He is very depressed."

The news didn't come as a total shock to the young officer, who had been promoted to the detective division only recently. His physicians told him immediately after the injury there was virtually no chance to save the eye.

"He is very low, very depressed," said McDaniel, a 25-year veteran of the force. "But he is a terrific young man, and he will make it back okay," McDaniel said he visited Doughty after doctors came in with their verdict. Doughty was concerned about his future, the chief said.

"I assured him that he would still be a policeman," McDaniel said. "He smiled, and a tear came to the eye that is not bandaged."

"He said, 'that means more to me than you will ever know,'" said McDaniel. "I told him we need him very badly."

Todd Hollenbach, the county's chief executive officer, telephoned the young officer, also to reassure him that his job is secure, McDaniel said.

"There are many jobs he can do," the chief said, declining to mention any specifically. "He's been with us about five years. He is too valuable and has too much experience, so he will have a job."

Doughty, an all-star baseball and basketball player in his high school days in Louisville, spends most of his time working with youngsters, McDaniel commented in an interview.

"He worked with youth all the time," the chief noted. "Just about all his free time he spent in Little League, managing a baseball team."

McDaniel said the riot Friday night in which Doughty was hurt "was one of the worst situations I've ever been confronted with."
